▲ EUROPE : La Bundeswehr va créer une quatrième division, dédiée à la « sécurité intérieure »

DOT à l'allemande: la Bundeswehr va créer une nouvelle division de sécurité intérieure, la Heimatschutz-Division

Cette réorganisation doublée d'un renforcement des moyens, s'inscrit dans le cadre d'une réforme globale initiée par le ministre de la Défense Boris Pistorius (du SPD) pour accroître les capacités militaires de l'Allemagne. [...] Le gouvernement allemand entend aussi renforcer considérablement les effectifs qui, actuellement, ne sont pas suffisants pour faire face aux tâches assignées. D'où la possible réintroduction du service militaire pour doper le recrutement des jeunes hommes et des jeunes femmes.

Guerre hybride : L'armée allemande va créer une quatrième division, dédiée à la « sécurité intérieure » « En cas de tension, voire en cas de crise, les forces de sécurité intérieure doivent protéger les ports, les installations ferroviaires et les points de transbordement de marchandises, ainsi que les pipelines, les routes utilisées par les troupes, les ponts, les pôles de transport et les infrastructures numériques. Elles visent également à garantir le rôle de l'Allemagne en tant que base opérationnelle et plaque tournante de l'Otan », rapporte le quotidien Bild. En temps de paix, cette quatrième division se concentrera sur des missions relevant de la sécurité civile [intervention lors de catastrophes, appui à la population, etc.]. La création de la « Heimatschutzdivision » fait suite à celle du Commandement territorial de la Bundeswehr [Territorialen Führungskommandos der Bundeswehr ou TerrFüKdoBw], en septembre 2022.

Germany to Form New Military Division Focused on Territorial Defense

Germany has announced plans to establish a new military division dedicated to territorial defense as tensions in Europe reach their highest levels since the Cold War. "The territorial defense will be put under army command from April 1, 2025," an army spokesperson confirmed, adding that the division will incorporate all existing reserve units for a total strength of at least 20,000 troops. [...] Germany has ramped up its defense spending amid concerns that Russia may target a NATO member if it emerges victorious in Ukraine. [...] German Defense Minister Boris Pistorius has previously warned that Moscow could potentially wage a war against NATO by 2029. [...] Last week, the German Parliament approved a 65-million-euro ($68 million) purchase of five Israeli-made PULS rocket artillery systems to strengthen its defense capabilities. Additionally, more than 20 billion euros ($20.7 billion) in new defense equipment, including four submarines, has been authorized recently for the German military.

Germany plans new homeland security army division

On Saturday, Germany's military, the Bundeswehr, confirmed that it would establish a major new land forces unit dedicated to securing vital infrastructure and military facilities inside the country. As part of the new structure, the homeland defense forces will be placed under the army's command from April. [...] While Germany already has homeland defense units, these are generally non-active and made up of reservists, coming under the control of commands from Germany's individual states. The latest move would make them semi-active, under the command of the army. The division is to consist of active soldiers and reservists. The decree, the fourth regulation to restructure the Bundeswehr in its history, means that "national and alliance defense is once again the focus" due to heightened concerns about Russian aggression. It provides "the formal basis for a war-ready leadership organization."

Trump's Greenland and Panama Canal Threats Are a Throwback to an Old, Misguided Foreign Policy

Trump's remarks suggest that unchallenged hemispheric dominance will be at the core of his "America First" approach for the same two motives driving the Monroe Doctrine: to prevent outside powers from meddling and mitigate perceived chaos in the region. Resurrecting this tradition, however, would be both risky and counterproductive to U.S. foreign policy and the global order.

▲ EURASIE : Seconde offensive ukrainienne dans la région russe de Kursk

Ukraine's Kursk Offensive: Symbolic Gains, Strategic Costs?

On January 5, 2025, Ukraine launched its second offensive into Russia's Kursk region, underscoring its commitment to maintaining pressure on Moscow. The operation comes at a time when the war is grinding on multiple fronts, with Ukraine striving to assert its ability to disrupt Russian operations despite ongoing challenges in defending key areas. Unlike the first offensive, this renewed effort reflects a more calculated approach, combining long-range missile strikes targeting Russian logistics with precise company-level ground assaults aimed at capturing key areas while minimizing direct confrontations with heavily fortified Russian positions... For Ukraine, the real question moving forward is whether the sacrifices made in Kursk will pay off in the end, or if the focus should shift back to defending the heart of the country. The Kursk offensive remains a powerful symbol of Ukraine's determination, but the true test will be how they navigate the difficult road ahead and whether Kyiv can turn these bold moves into lasting strategic gains.

Ukraine, Russia trade attacks in Kursk while Russia takes Kurakhove

Ukraine may have hoped to divert Russian forces attacking elsewhere in Kursk Oblast, where Russia has retaken roughly half the Ukrainian-captured territory. Ukraine attempted a similar gambit back in September, which did not amount to much. Such attacks are not without risk, given that the Ukrainian military is already short on combat-ready troops and equipment. Although further Ukrainian attacks are possible, Kyiv probably lacks enough forces for a significant advance against a prepared Russian defense. Meanwhile, Russia reportedly launched another wave of attacks on the salient's left flank... Russian forces continue to make incremental gains in various parts of eastern Ukraine. Notably, on January 6, Moscow claimed its forces completed the capture of Kurakhove, a small city in the southern part of Donetsk Oblast.

Russia Says Ukraine Launches 'Counterattack' in Kursk Region

Russia said Sunday that Ukraine had launched a "counterattack" in the western border region of Kursk, where Kyiv's forces began a shock ground offensive last August... The assault comes at a critical juncture in the nearly three-year conflict, with both sides seeking to strengthen their negotiating hand ahead of US President-elect Donald Trump's return to the White House on January 20... Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky said last year the Kursk operation has boosted Kyiv's "exchange fund" – its negotiating position on swapping prisoners of war – and diverted tens of thousands of Russian troops away from the eastern front. He said Saturday evening that "up to a battalion of North Korean infantry soldiers and Russian airborne troops" had been lost in battles in the Kursk region on that day and the day before. And in an interview with US podcaster Lex Fridman released Sunday, he underlined the key role Trump would play.

▲ ASIE — OCÉANIE : L'Indonésie devient membre du groupe des BRICS+

Joining BRICS, Indonesia sticks with multi-alignment strategy

Indonesia's decision to join BRICS is no strategic pivot but a continuation of its multi-alignment foreign policy. However, Indonesia will need to navigate internal BRICS dynamics while maintaining ties with the West and its leadership role in the Association of Southeast Asian Nations... While Indonesia insists it remains non-aligned, BRICS membership could complicate its relationships with the United States and EU. If tensions between BRICS and the West intensify, Indonesia will need to manage its role carefully to avoid undermining its broader foreign policy objectives... Beyond tension with the West, BRICS also faces internal challenges. Different and sometimes contradicting national interests, such as those between China and India, often undermine the bloc's cohesion and collective action. This may challenge Indonesia's ability to influence the group's agenda without being carried away by the power contest within.

Indonesia Joined BRICS. What Does Russia Want From Them?

On July 31, Subianto was received by Vladimir Putin in Moscow and described Russia as a "great friend"... Boasting a 280-million-strong population with a median age of just 30 Indonesia could become a hotbed for Kremlin-led mercenary recruitment as the war in Ukraine grinds on. From Putin's standpoint, the best-case scenario would be establishing a North Korea-esque arrangement whereby able-bodied, fighting-age Indonesians are dispatched to the conflict zone and passed off as ethnic Buryats or Tuvans to give both parties plausible deniability... Amid waning influence in what it sees as its own backyard, Russia is aligning itself more closely with ASEAN in the hope that these states will continue to push back against enforcing Western sanctions. As far as Putin is concerned, bringing Indonesia into the BRICS fold and propping up its controversial, Euroskeptic commander-in-chief will not only ensure the current status quo is maintained but also help peel neighboring applicants such as Thailand and Malaysia away from the transatlantic orbit.

Indonesia's entry into BRICS: Reshaping the global legal order

Indonesia's full membership in BRICS marks a diplomatic milestone. The expansion will inject fresh momentum into the coalition of major emerging economies to reshape the global legal order. Indonesia will now be part of the major political forces of the Global South in its quest for a more inclusive, equitable and balanced multipolar world order. Through BRICS, Indonesia is also committed to genuine multilateralism where the developing countries will have more meaningful roles in the global decision-making process. For the Global South, the contemporary global legal order is a construct rooted in Eurocentric values and Western ideals... Through various strategic initiatives, BRICS promotes adherence to international rule of law and contests the strategic use of international law to serve particular political preferences and power interests.

Indonesia Officially Becomes First Southeast Asian Member of BRICS

On Monday, Brazil's government announced that Indonesia has been admitted as a full member of the BRICS (Brazil, Russia, India, China, South Africa) bloc of developing economies, after expressing its interest in membership late last year... making it the first nation from Southeast Asia to join the economic group... Indonesia's elevation reflects a growing Southeast Asian interest in the BRICS grouping, which has positioned itself as an alternative to global institutions dominated by the U.S. and other Western nations... Wary of growing tensions between China, Russia and the West, Indonesia and its neighbors are determined to maintain good relations with both sides.

Côte d'Ivoire : Paris et Abidjan accélèrent sur la rétrocession de la base militaire française

La base militaire française en Côte d'Ivoire sera officiellement rétrocédée aux autorités locales le 22 janvier, marquant un nouveau chapitre dans les relations franco-ivoiriennes. À la différence des leaders du Tchad et du Sénégal, Alassane Ouattara a étroitement coordonné sa communication du 31 décembre en amont avec la partie française... La base accueillera le bataillon des commandos parachutistes ivoiriens à partir de juillet. Malgré la réduction des effectifs français, une coopération militaire axée sur la formation sera maintenue. Le président ivoirien Alassane Ouattara, soucieux de préserver ce partenariat stratégique, rencontrera Emmanuel Macron à Paris avant la fin du mois. Cette transition intervient à moins d'un an de l'élection présidentielle en Côte d'Ivoire.

L'armée française mise à la porte de l'Afrique

Six pays africains, dont le Tchad, la Côte d'Ivoire et le Sénégal, ont exigé le retrait des forces militaires françaises, accélérant ainsi la fin de la présence française en Afrique. Le Tchad a fixé un ultimatum au 31 janvier 2025, tandis que la Côte d'Ivoire et le Sénégal prévoient également des départs imminents. Une réorganisation des bases au Gabon et à Djibouti reste en cours, mais des désaveux locaux pourraient compliquer la situation. Ces décisions marquent une rupture avec l'influence militaire française postcoloniale. La dernière grande base française subsistera à Djibouti, avec 1 500 soldats.

En Afrique, le gendarme est (presque) nu

La France perd deux nouvelles bases militaires en Afrique, au Sénégal et au Tchad, marquant un tournant historique après des décennies d'interventions. Ces retraits, imposés par les autorités locales, illustrent un rejet croissant de l'influence française en Afrique. Paris tente de repenser sa stratégie en réduisant sa présence militaire et en misant sur une coopération accrue via des académies et formations locales. Cependant, cette transition soulève des doutes sur sa capacité à maintenir son influence et son accès stratégique. La situation reflète une perte d'attractivité et une contestation générale de la politique française sur le continent.

Israel, Hamas Agree Cease-Fire Deal, Although Much uncertainty Remains

The Iran-backed Hamas has suffered greatly in the course of the war, losing its leader, Ismail Haniyeh, and his successor, Yahya Sinwar, within months of each other. [...] Hamas will claim victory simply because it survived the war. "The question is whether it can truly return to power in Gaza, retain its military capabilities, and even capitalize on this perceived victory to consolidate its presence outside of Gaza, namely in the West Bank," he [Horowitz] added. Iran, whose so-called axis of resistance has suffered multiple setbacks since the outbreak of the Gaza war, sees the cease-fire as good news.

Qatar, US Announce Gaza Truce, Hostage Release Deal

Qatar and the United States announced Wednesday a ceasefire and hostage-release deal between Israel and Hamas, adding that they hoped it would pave the way for a permanent end to the war in Gaza. After mediators said a deal had been reached, the office of Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said the "final details" were being worked on. [...] Israeli President Isaac Herzog, who holds a largely ceremonial role, said the deal was the "right move" to bring back hostages seized during the October 7, 2023 Hamas attack that sparked the war. [...] Qatari Prime Minister Sheikh Mohammed bin Abdulrahman bin Jassim al-Thani told a press conference Wednesday that the "two belligerents in the Gaza Strip have reached a deal," adding that the ceasefire between them would take effect on Sunday. [...] Egyptian President Abdel Fattah al-Sisi pointed to the "importance of accelerating the entry of urgent humanitarian aid" into Gaza as he welcomed news of the deal.

What you need to know about the Gaza ceasefire deal

Israel and Hamas agreed to a three-phase ceasefire deal on Wednesday after fifteen months of hostilities, the Qatari Prime Minister Mohammed bin Abdulrahman bin Jassim Al Thani announced in Doha. US President-elect Donald Trump announced on social media: "We have a deal for the hostages in the Middle East. They will be released shortly." [...] Israel will begin to withdraw from the Gaza Strip as part of the first phase, moving eastwards from densely populated areas, including from the Netzarim Corridor and Kuwait roundabout. [...] The Rafah crossing between Gaza and Egypt, which Israel seized during the war, will be opened for the transfer of wounded civilians after all women captives (civilians and soldiers) are released. Israeli forces will remain around the crossing. The agreement states that 50 wounded Palestinian combatants will be allowed to cross daily, with the approval of Israeli and Egyptian authorities. [...] The broad outline of the second phase is for all Israeli captives to be released in return for a total withdrawal from Gaza. The exact details are yet to be confirmed. [...] The third phase will involve the return of the bodies of Israeli captives still held in Gaza and the announcement of a three to five-year reconstruction plan for the enclave overseen by international actors.

After 15 months of war, Israel and Hamas agree to a ceasefire-hostage release deal

Fifteen months after the war in Gaza began with Hamas's devastating attack on southern Israel, Jerusalem and the Palestinian terror group reached an agreement Wednesday on a ceasefire and hostage release deal. The deal was confirmed by officials from Israel, Hamas, the United States, Egypt and Qatar, and was expected to take effect on Sunday, January 19, with the first of the hostages set to be released that day. [...] The complex accord, which has not yet been published, outlines a six-week initial ceasefire phase and includes the gradual withdrawal of Israeli forces from the Gaza Strip and the release of hostages taken by Hamas in exchange for Palestinian security prisoners held by Israel. Once the deal's implementation begins, Hamas will gradually release 33 Israeli hostages over the first 42 days of the ceasefire, according to multiple outlets. [...] If all goes smoothly, the Palestinians, Arab states and Israel must still agree on a vision for post-war Gaza, a formidable challenge involving security guarantees for Israel and many billions of dollars in investment for reconstruction.
